

Privacy Policy

1. You understand that you will be providing us with personal information that the Company will use to open, administer and maintain your account with us.
2. The Company undertakes not to sell or pass on your personal information to any third parties except to those that the Company needs to in relation to the normal operation of our business. These include credit card processing and verification centers, law enforcement agencies, any financial or other regulators, auditors and introducing brokers that the Company may have a business agreement with.
3. However, the Company may pass your information on to other companies as may be required for the execution of the Company's contractual obligations.
4. The Company may also use Google Analytics Advertising Features which allows Finteria to collect information on the Website visitor demographics. You may opt out of this by contacting Google at any time.
5. The Company may provide personal details to other margin trading firms who are seeking a reference, however this would not include details of any open positions.
6. The Company obtains most of the information about our clients directly from them, but the Company reserves the right to obtain information from other sources such as credit reference agencies, and/or fraud prevention agencies.
7. The Company may use the information to provide a better service or new products to you via direct or indirect marketing.
8. All staff at Finteria are fully trained in the confidentiality of handling personal information.
9. All personal information held by us is done so in secure computer-based storage facilities wherever possible. Otherwise the Company holds the information in secure paper-based files. No unauthorized persons are able to gain access to these storage facilities.
10. The Finteria website uses Social Plugins which may be notified of the fact that your browser is viewing the Website and this information may also include your IP address. If you do not want this information shared, then you should ensure you are logged out of your social media accounts prior to viewing our website.
11. The Website may install cookies on your computer so that the Company can better serve your requirements by knowing what areas of our website you have been looking at and speeding your navigation. You have the option of turning this function off via your computer settings if you wish, although this may affect your ability to view other parts of the website.
12. While the Company makes every effort to ensure all the information the Company holds is correct and up to date, it is your responsibility to furnish us with any changes in your personal information.
13. Users who wish to no longer receive our newsletter or promotional emails may click on a link named "Unsubscribe" any time without charge (not taking into account internet provision costs) which is embedded with every email sent by Finteria in order to not receive future messages.